Chiefs Of 4 Conference Schools Favor Athletic De-emphasis

Desire Expressed To Present Program Of N.U. Chancellor To Big 7 Governing Body

BY FOREST AMSDEN (Star Staff Writer)

Chiefs of four of the Big Seven's five large state universities Wednesday night expressed their agreement with Nebraska university's Chancellor R. G. Gustavson in his urging of de-emphasis for intercollegiate athletics.

The Star, in an exclusive survey, found a desire for presentation of Dr. Gustavson's program to the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic association faculty representatives, the Big Seven's governing body.

Chancellor Gustavson, at an all-university convocation Wednesday morning, urged his students to re-appraise values of higher education. He suggested that:

All off-season athletic practices, such as spring football, be abolished; freshmen not be allowed to participate in intercollegiate athletics; all post-season athletic contests—such as "bowl games"—be eliminated; and every student, including athletes, be required to make "normal progress toward graduation."

Go Almost All Of Way

Chancellor Gustavson's colleagues in other league schools backed his theories almost all the way.

The most interesting reply was given The Star by President G. L. Cross of the University of Oklahoma. The head of that gridiron goliath said: "I support heartily the recommendations made by Chancellor Gustavson." Oklahoma, high nationally in football ever since the war, has been among the most heavily criticized "football emphasis" institution.

President Robert L. Stearns of the University of Colorado, said he "applauded" Gustavson for his attitude. C. U. last week put forth similar ideas through its athletic director, Dr. Harry Carlson.

Dr. Stearns "fully concurred" in cancellation of off-season practice, said he and his school are against freshman eligibility "as a long term proposition," and said he had "never approved of post-season contests."

He thought present Big Seven eligibility rules, however, were aimed at the result desired by Nebraska's chancellor.

President Frederick A. Middlebush of the University of Missouri said he thought "all the suggestions by my good friend Gustavson are legitimate."

He urged that they be "laid before our Big Seven faculty representatives for discussion and action" at an early date. He hinted answers to some of Dr. Gustavson's points on "agreement by all other schools." Middlebush declined elaborate comment in deference to his school's athletic committee.

Franklin D. Murphy, chancellor of the University of Kansas, told The Star he "agrees in principle with Chancellor Gustavson's points," as he understood them.

Dr. Charles Friley, head of Iowa State college, and Dr. James McCain, president of Kansas State college, could not be reached for comment. The chief officers of the league's two agricultural schools were both traveling when The Star telephoned them.

(See story of Dr. Gustavson's convocation address on Page 9, and other stories in the sport section.)

Milford School Chief Points Out School's Value

Superintendent Lowell Welsh of the Nebraska State Training school at Milford Wednesday night defended the school's operation.

The Nebraska Federation of Labor earlier Wednesday asked that the Nebraska legislature study the advisability of closing the school.

"People want the type of education offered at the Milford school—and have a right to it—just as much as other types of education offered at other state-supported schools," Welsh said.

The labor group, in a resolution, said that there was an "apparent" lack of acceptance by employers of graduates of the school.

But, said Welsh, "as far as I know we haven't had any difficulty in placing students." He said that requests for school graduates were on file even now.

The school has an enrollment of about 160.

A bill to abolish the trade school was introduced in the last legislative session but was killed in committee.

The measure was introduced by Sen. George Syas, Omaha, and was supported by the state A. F. of L.

Manhandled Justice: Kangaroo Court Collects AUF Funds

ADDUCI ON TRIAL—Fullback Nick Adduci of Chicago was a reluctant witness in an A.U.F. kangaroo court. Judge Sarah Fulton, Lincoln, watches Defense Attorney Jane Calhoun, Lincoln.

Justice was manhandled Wednesday evening for a good cause as university students used semi-legal methods to obtain funds for their All-University fund.

AUF President Sarah Fulton sat as judge while 11 organization presidents charged with crimes from throwing football games to selling opium in the form of "N" carnations were brought to the "bar of justice."

With Don Berquist, law student, as prosecuting attorney the victims of the kangaroo court were quickly disposed of and $200 in fines in the form of AUF contributions were collected.

Only one defendant Bob "Moon" Mullins president of the N club was not bailed out by donations from his organization. The prisoner will serve his term in stocks in front of Love library from 12:50 until 1:20 p.m. Thursday.

Although legal procedure was used to some extent the judge insured guilty verdicts by instructing witnesses to answer "yes" to all questions.

Among the guilty defendants were:

Jerry Johnson, president of Innocent men's activity honors, charged with not being an innocent innocent.

women's activity honors, charged with "spiking" the tea at the chancellor's reception.

Mary Hubka, president of Good Counselors, charged with selling the blood of Counselor board members on the black market.

Others "bailed out" with AUF contributions were Gene Johnson, president of Corn Cobs, men's pep club; Dick Billie, editor of the Cornhusker, university yearbook; Marilyn Coure, president of University Builders, service organization; Jerry Johnson, president of Kismet Klub; Dee Irwin, president of Women's Athletic association; Marilyn Vingers, president of Tassels, women's pep club; and Nancy Button, president of the Association of Women Students.

AUF money will be used to finance displaced persons, foreign students and others needing financial help. The kangaroo court is part of an annual drive of the organization.

Jacobs Terms Community Chest 'Mercy Mission'

... Captains Hold Kick-Off Dinner For Drive

Nearly 500 Community Chest campaign captains were told Wednesday night that they were missionaries of mercy "carrying on a crusade which safeguards the very principles which have made our country great."

Morris E. Jacobs, Omaha, speaker at the Chest's 1951 campaign kick-off dinner at the Cornhusker hotel, went on to say:

"By your degree of effort and success you will decide whether you, and all of us, as individual American citizens want to do this job."

Jacobs, one of Omaha's outstanding civic leaders and a national board member of the United Defense fund, claimed the government would "take another stride into our homes" if individual citizens did not support the drive.

Jacobs told the 500 captains leading the 1,700 volunteer workers who begin the campaign Thursday to raise $342,684, that if the drive failed responsibility "rests solely with the lay persons—the fine citizens like yourselves who take on the responsibilities for the conduct of the local Chest money-making campaign."

The general chairman of the 1950 Community Chest campaign in Omaha closed by telling workers they would face hardships and suffer "a few jibes and insults" during the campaign, but if they keep one thought in mind they would remain "ever cheerful."

The thought:

"He complained because he had no shoes—until he saw a man who had no feet."

Louis Horn, executive secretary of the Chest, said that if this is a successful campaign it will mark the 25th consecutive year that Lincoln has met its goal.

Prior to Jacobs' address, Carl W. Olson, president of the Chest, outlined the goal of this year's campaign.

Albert A. Held, general chairman of the campaign, presided at the meeting.

Horn told The Star that the campaign would "probably be finished in ten days or so."

The first report luncheon will be held Friday at the chamber of commerce.

Dr. Stanley G. Zemer Dies

School Board Will Pick Successor To Complete Term

Dr. Stanley G. Zemer, a practicing physician in Lincoln since 1915 and a member of the board of education, died Wednesday after an illness of several months.

During World War II, Dr. Zemer was chief of the ear, nose and throat department of a base hospital in Kentucky.

The death brought expressions of regret from Lincoln public school circles. Dr. Steven N. Watkins, superintendent of schools, and Elmer E. Magee, president of the school board, both said Dr. Zemer's death was a blow to the board and to Lincoln.

Dr. Watkins pointed out that under the rotation system used by the board, Dr. Zemer would have been president of the group for the next school year. This makes the loss especially acute, he said.

'Exceedingly Valuable'

Magee agreed that Dr. Zemer was an "exceedingly valuable member of the board." His experience as school principal for several years and his profession as a physician gave Dr. Zemer valuable knowledge which most of the board members do not have, Magee said.

He said the board will probably appoint someone soon to fill the vacancy left by Dr. Zemer's death as a vacancy makes it difficult to obtain a quorum at all board meetings.

Whoever is appointed will serve the rest of this school year and be reappointed next summer or replaced by another appointee to fill the vacancy until the next regular election in May, 1955.

Was Sixty-Eight

Dr. Zemer, whose home was at 2145 B street, was 68 years of age.

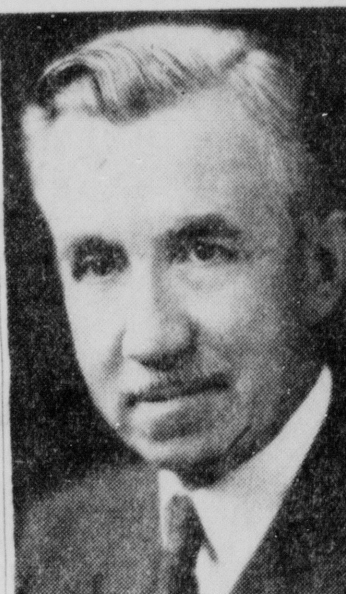

Committee Chairman

Dr. Zemer had served on the school board since May, 1949, being elected for a six-year term. At the time of his death, he was chairman of the board's building committee which was formed to handle the long range building expansion program of the Lincoln school system.

Born at Lockport, O., on Feb. 19, 1883, Dr. Zemer was graduated from the Celino, O., high school in 1900.

After spending two years at Ohio State university, he became principal of the South Charleston, O., schools.

Truce Optimism Mounts

Early Renewal Of Talks Seems Sure

(From Press Dispatches)

TOKYO—(Thursday)—Early renewal of Korea armistice talks seemed assured today with liaison officers meeting again in Panmunjom to work on the problems of definition of a neutrality zone.

Allied and communist liaison groups met for more than two hours this morning and scheduled another meeting for the afternoon.

The single known problem to be settled before the full truce delegations resume their talks was that of the extent of the neutrality zone around Panmunjom, the agreed-upon meeting place.

"Agree 'In The Main'

United Nations liaison officers want the zone to be determined now, but the communists hold the definition of the zone is a task for the top cease-fire delegations.

The Peiping radio said agreement "in the main" was reached Wednesday on:

1—Methods of jointly guaranteeing the protection of the conference site.

2—Specific location of the site.

3—Equipment and facilities to be moved into the site.

4—The date and time for resumption of full dress negotiations.

Date Not Announced

Peiping and the U.N. command did not announce the date and time, but the allied and communist delegations were standing by, ready to go to Panmunjom on short notice.

Optimism about eventual success of the armistice conference rose with the prospects of agreement on the current problem.

In Munsan, the five-man U.N. truce team waited in tents in an orchard for word to resume talks.

The site will be in the Panmunjom area," a statement said, "but its actual location on the ground has not been determined."

Mrs. Eunice A. Cleveland Dies; 204 Survivors Remain

Mrs. Eunice A. Cleveland, 2223 E street, died at her home Wednesday. A resident of Lincoln for 67 years, Mrs. Cleveland is survived by three daughters, one son, 41 grandchildren, 104 great grandchildren and 55 great great grandchildren. She was 98.

Immediate survivors are her daughters, Mrs. William Cheney, Mrs. W. E. Frederick and Mrs. Ira Hudson, all of Lincoln and one son, George H. Cleveland, Beaumont, Tex.

Born in Randolph, N. Y., she was a member of the Methodist church at Roca.

Food Shortage In Poland Brings Purge

VIENNA — (AP) — Reports reaching Vienna Wednesday say communist Poland's critical food shortage has resulted in a severe purge of red officials in Warsaw.

Informed western sources said many communists were being fired from their jobs. An article in the latest weekly journal of the communist by Zenon Nowak, Polish communist secretary-general, hinted at this. It said:

"In Posen province, 14 chairmen of the district peoples councils were expelled from the party for shutting their eyes to or for complicity in lukak (village rich) attempts to foil the grain harvest. More than 20 secretaries of lower party organizations ... also were removed from their posts."

Policing Lincoln's Supply: N.U. Group Protects Water Purity

Chances are you never give a thought to the "police force" that is seeing to the protection of your health every time you take a drink of water.

It's there, however, every day to act as a check on the procedures employed by the city water department to give every public place, business and home pure water free from harmful bacteria.

Every month the bacteriology department at the University of Nebraska takes nearly 100 samples of the city's water supply from as many different sources. At the head of that work is Prof. L. F. Lindgren.

Sand Filtration

As explained by Professor Lindgren, "the elimination of infectious bacteria from drinking water either by means of sand filtration or chemical treatment with chlorine, or by both proceeding, has resulted in a decrease of such diseases as are represented by the typhoid fever or paratyphoid fever types of diseases."

Lincoln is fortunate, said Professor Lindgren, in that its Ashland water supply is filtered by natural processes before it is touched by the city. The chlorination of the water is added as an extra safety measure even though it would not be essential.

There is also another double safety value used. If the water leaves the Ashland plant with any impurities the situation would be corrected at the A street pumping station before the water is sent on to the consumer.

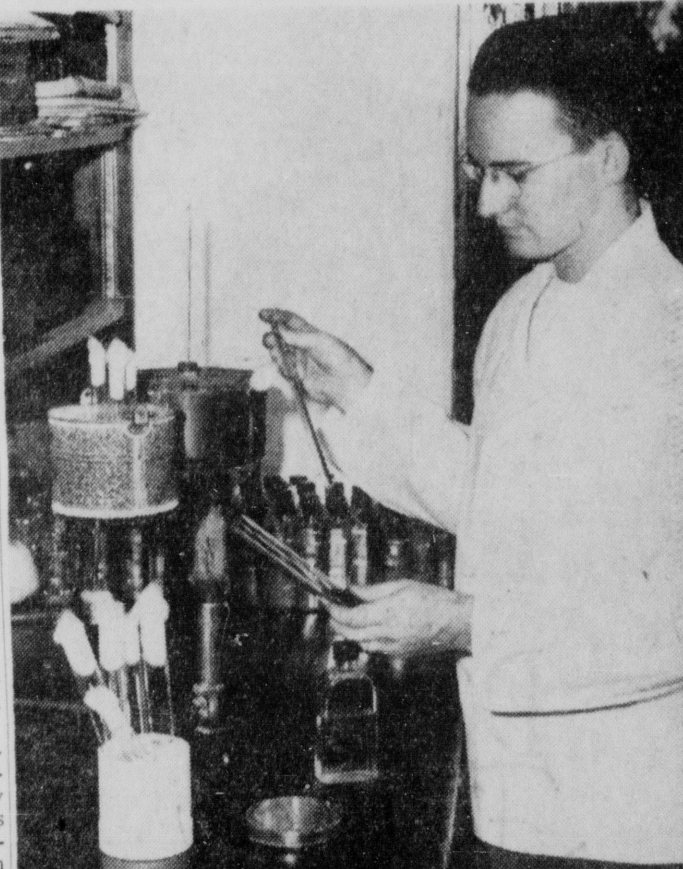

Daily Check

A check on the water is made daily at the Twenty-sixth and O, Ashland main before it even gets to the A street plant.

Testing procedures involve fermentation tests to determine any evidence of pollution from either sewage or non-sewage origins and the number of harmful bacteria.

According to Professor Lindgren laboratories which examine water are certified by the United States Public Health service. That gives even more assurance of pure water as regular inspections are made by the service of the laboratories.

These inspections cover ever the smallest details including the incubators, sterilizing apparatus media used and even the thermometer. The monthly water condition reports are also examined at times by government inspectors.

A CHECK ON YOUR DRINKING WATER—Harry Lindsay, 1221 G street, a graduate student in bacteriology at the University of Nebraska, tests a sample of water taken from the "Ashland main" at Twenty-sixth and O streets before it reaches the A street pumping station. The water is checked each day to determine evidence of pollution. Lindsay is holding a fermentation tube. (Star Photo.)

—War In Korea— Airfields Of Reds Blasted

Defense Locks Broken
At 'Heartbreak Ridge'

(From Press Dispatches)
EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS — (Thursday) — (INS) — A new communist threat to extend their air war against United Nations troops and stop the current allied offensive was smashed—at least temporarily—Wednesday by American B-29 Superforts.

The big bombers blasted five North Korean airfields where red work crews had been toiling for more than a week to get them into serviceable condition.

On the ground a 50-tank punch in eastern Korea Wednesday unhooked two keys of the red defenses for "Heartbreak Ridge."

In west Korea, other allied forces stormed a ridgeline from two sides and won it in a day-long attack from Chinese reds who had held on grimly for a week.

These successes, pushing the allied lines deeper into North Korea, were scored while the reds displayed an even polite willingness to resume the cease-fire talks they had broken off angrily.

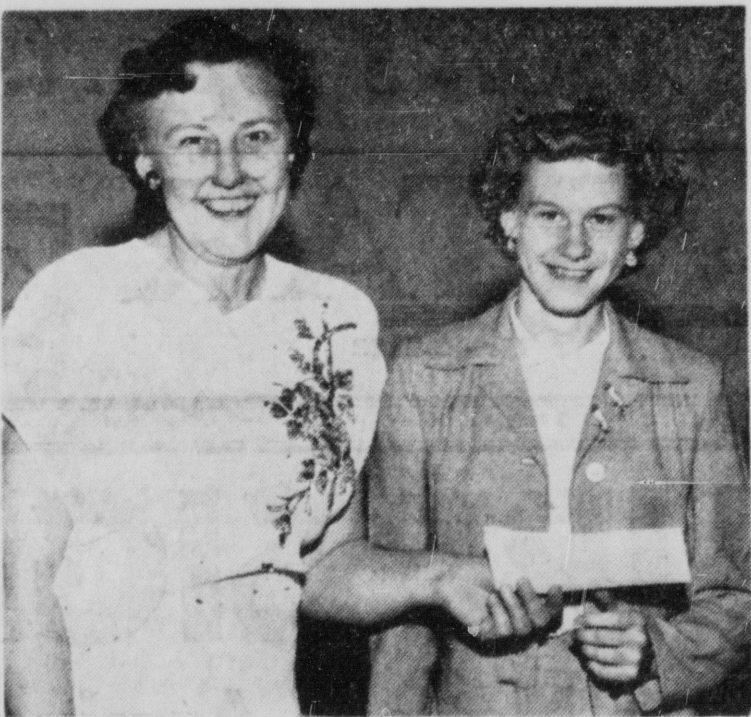

The 50 tanks and thousands of U.S. Second division troops made an eight-mile thrust in eastern Korea which raised hopes that the bloody battle for "Heartbreak Ridge" may be about over.

Veteran outfits won hill fights in both the east and west. In the east, the red defense keys unlocked were two foothills on either side of a valley skirting the western side of "Heartbreak."

These were captured by the Third battalion of the 38th regiment and the Second battalion of the 23rd. The two Second division regiments got a powerful assist from the 72nd heavy tank battalion which sent fresh but green Chinese red troops into panicky flight.

Small Blaze Quenched

An oil stove that overflowed Wednesday night brought firemen to the home of Homer Ward at 1825 North Thirty-second. No damage resulted from the blaze, according to reports.

THE WINNER WAS ABSENT—Marilyn Maxson, Valparaiso, right, won second place in the Nebraska State Grange safe driving essay contest and is shown receiving a cash award from Mrs. Roy B. Third Annual World Affairs Conference Is Set Feb. 1-3

A third annual Lincoln conference on world affairs, was tentatively set Feb. 1 through 3 during a meeting Wednesday of some 20 religious, labor, educational, and professional groups at the Y.W.C.A.

Fenner King of the First Christian church social action council and Edgar Palmer, director of business research and the University of Nebraska and of the Lincoln Friends Meeting, were elected conference co-chairmen during the Wednesday session.

Knute O. Broady of the university extension division and the First Presbyterian church was selected secretary.

Walter McCleaneghan of the American Friends' service committee of Des Moines, told the group the "purpose of the conference, as of the two preceding, will be to provide an opportunity for people to seek constructive ideas for solving international problems."

Pointing to the chief reason for such conferences, McCleaneghan said, "Violence has settled little and there is a moral obligation to seek another solution."

Yom Kippur was observed with day long services in both of Lincoln's Jewish congregations Wednesday.

At Tifereth Israel Synagogue, the first services were held at 8 a.m. At 11:30 a.m. Rabbi Joshua Stamper delivered a sermon on "Taking a Chance."

He pointed out that in order to achieve certain goals, one often has to take chances of losing other things. In other words, he said, to progress one must expose himself to unhappy circumstances occasionally rather than always trying to avoid them.

Yiskor services were held at 12:30 and Neelah at 4:30 to end the day's worship. A post-Yom Kippur dance followed at 9 p.m.

At the South Street Temple Yom Kippur services began at 10:30 a.m. with a sermon by Rabbi Samuel Halevi Baron on "Personal and Public Prayer."

In the sermon, Rabbi Baron referred to the need for both kinds of prayer—private and public.

"No one is so self sufficient and no one is so great that he cannot do with some corporate, congregational prayer," he said, with its "morale giving power" and the psychology of a group working and praying together and supporting each other in their aspirations.

Mid-day meditation from 12:30 to 2 p.m. was followed by a children's service at which Rabbi Baron gave a sermonette, "At-one-ment." In it he pointed out the purpose of the day of atonement is for all to become one with God through becoming at one with their fellow men.

He spoke again at a memorial service on "Tablets of Memory." In it he mentioned tangible and intangible ways in which "we can immortalize the life of our departed loved ones."

Errecting monuments in the memory of departed ones, he said, is the tangible way and making benefactions in their memory is the intangible method.

The next year he organized a real estate business which he owned and operated at his home until this year.

He was a member of the Lincoln lodge of the Sons of Herman, America Forward Welfare society, chamber of commerce, Trinity Lutheran church, and national, state and Lincoln Realtors boards.

Survivors are wife, Ida D.; five brothers, Paul of Lincoln, Karl of Hood River, Ore., Herman of Eugene, Ore., and Remmer and Harry of Palacios, Tex., and sister, Selma, of Palacios.

N.U. Enrollment

Down 14 Per Cent

Final University of Nebraska enrollment figures show a drop of 14 per cent from last year.

There are 6,949 students attending as compared to 8,023 a year ago. Dr. Floyd Hoover, acting director of registration, said.

These figures include those regularly-enrolled on the Lincoln campus and in the college of medicine and school of nursing at Omaha. They do not include those taking extension courses.

Students on the Lincoln campus number 6,470 this year—4,707 men and 1,763 women.

'Cigaret Wrappers Will Not Obtain Dogs For Blind'

Saving of the red cellophane tape on wrappers of cigarette packages will not aid blind in getting "seeing eye" dogs, Harry Hines, director of the state department of the blind, said.

Hines said rumors have been circulated that the saving of a certain number of the strips would provide a blind person with a dog. The stories caused many groups of university students to join in the saving campaign in order to aid one of their fellow students, he said.

Hines was bitter at the perpetrators of the hoax, saying that students were working with the best of humanitarian intentions. Over zealous promoters of a tobacco company are said to have started the rumors.

Report on Results DESIGN for DINING 1951

From the 8900 Nebraskans who viewed our coordinated settings last week
we learned the following:

MODERN is doing better than holding its own, but the extremist designer is in for a bit of a jolt. The large percentage of people seem to prefer the simplicity of modern, but they are demanding the warmth of traditional forms... minus the excesses of baroque and rococo which marked early modern.

Over 90% of visitors chose the Governor's Mansion as favorite, over the other traditional and modern rooms. We predict that the interiors for this locality will achieve more of the warmth of living which is exemplified in the Governor's Mansion setting. While wall colors, drapery and upholstery textures, and the simplicity of the furniture design were definitely in the modern trend, the over-all effect was one of extreme liability and comfort, with the slight nostalgia, of styling borrowed from the past.

At Last A Competitor

By J. E. LAWRENCE

LOS ANGELES—Mark it down on the pad that before too many months the halls of congress will echo with discussion of protecting American industry. In one field particularly there is abundant evidence that dollar-hungry countries, notably the British, are fighting for American dollars. It is not an uncommon sight to see British-made cars in the streams of traffic in this city.

One, a powerful swift creation (said to be capable of maintaining a speed of 120 miles an hour) sleek, low hung, with most graceful lines, sells for from 5 to 8 thousand dollars. It is said to have a popularity among the motion picture people, ever quick to seize upon anything which will attract attention to them. Still another make, also British, selling for considerably less money, has quite a foothold out here. The term "foothold" should not be interpreted to mean that every other car—even one in a hundred—is a foreign make. But the fact remains that within the last year and a half more British cars have been sold in this area than in all preceding years.

The American automotive industry did not grow fat back of tariff barriers. It is one industry that came from the cradle to take its place among American achievements without nursemaid, or the watchful eye of a paternal government. It became a giant, strong, a vital factor in American economy, through its own resourcefulness and skill—plus one other factor. Back of it at all times have been a people whose pocketbook enabled the automobile industry to achieve the maximum efficiency both in the product and in prices through mass production and distribution. British and French rivals, and the Italian automotive industry, never could compete either in engineering advances or in price range, although enjoying the advantage of cheap labor, because their peoples could not buy automobiles in volume.

It could have been anticipated that ultimately the question of imports from impoverished countries would inspire a demand for reexamination of the more generous policies embraced in reciprocal trade agreements. They are not responsible directly at this time for this sudden spurge of foreign-made automobiles. But the wonder is that in the post-war years we have avoided the ghastly blunder which followed closely upon the heels of the first global conflict. Then, twice in less than a decade in response to popular clamor effectively voiced in Washington, congress built tariff walls around the United States. Our own trade virtually disappeared. Although we were a creditor nation, and the first global conflict had expanded our industrial plants enormously, we took flight and refuge behind frowning tariff fortifications. The consequences were not long in manifesting themselves. We would not buy and we could not sell—our warehouses first became clogged with goods and ultimately the factories suspended operations.

It is common knowledge that production won the second world war. The United States became the arsenal of democracy, and in gaining that position increased its industrial capacity more than threefold. There has been no retreat since the Pacific struggle came to a close. We have moved ahead, steadily enlarging factories, enabling America to turn out more goods of all kinds to satisfy the needs of a world so sorely short of the necessities and luxuries.

Now there is nothing on the horizon at this minute to suggest the acuteness of the struggle for markets. These tiny British cars or the larger models occasionally dart in and out of the long lanes of automobiles which are a part of life in Los Angeles. We are told that some of these countries have become better equipped to compete. Their factories have been retooled, their workmen have been better trained. Some of the American companies, taking advantage of much lower wage scales abroad, have met the challenge by establishing branches overseas which produce cars sold here at home. But the energetic attempts of Marshall dollar countries to sell merchandise to America indicates they have come a long way since the close of the war.

The issue of a tariff has been with us constantly throughout the memory of present generations. It does not make for entertaining reading. Yet within the stormy months ahead it could take on an importance which it has not had for nearly two decades.

because the legislators were spending monies in a rampant spirit of abandon. On the contrary, taxes were raised because there was no other way to satisfy the people's desires for more and better state services in time of rising costs.

Had a state sales tax been adopted, it would not have been necessary to make such increases in the property tax. A sales tax here, based upon those in effect in our sister states, would raise something between 12 and 15 million dollars a year. A state sales tax is never "just another tax." It is, by its very nature, a "replacement" tax. Whatever amount of money it raises, it replaces just that much added burden to the property tax.

Now, how about the "little man"? Somehow or other, we all too often lose sight of comparative values when discussing him. True, he would pay a sales tax. He would pay his proportionate share. But the more a man buys in a sales tax state, the more sales tax he pays. And most articles which carry a sales tax certainly cannot be considered the necessities of life. On the other hand, most states exempt foodstuffs and other items which are considered necessities.

Under our present system, the little man pays through the nose. Let him accumulate a dollar's worth of material goods and the tax collector is after him at the drop of a hat. A burdensome property levy discourages him in his ambitions to own a home or a piece of land. Perhaps it even forecloses him before he can get a start. So he hangs his hat on a nail and when adverse weather, be it the good Lord's or economic, comes, he trots off looking for greener pastures elsewhere. A home-owning, farm-owning, property-owning population is a relatively stable one. A renting one is not, nor can it be a happy one, in the long run.

Sooner or later, Nebraska will adopt a state sales tax. Let's hope she does it before the damage she now is doing herself is so great it cannot be undone.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—New Atomic Weapons Prevent Soviet Attack

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Around 1946 as our hoped-for friendly relations with Russia were turning more and more sour, Gen. Omar Bradley, meeting with a small group of congressmen, predicted:

"If the red army chose to invade Europe right now, they could reach the English channel in 12 days. Nothing could stop them."

Today, this is not the case. The red army could be stopped at the Rhine. This change is not because the red army is any smaller. It still has millions of men, still is completely reckless in its disregard for casualties. Nor is the change because Eisenhower's army is more adequate. Though Eisenhower's army is a good job, his army is still pitifully small compared with the Russian.

The change, therefore, is chiefly the result of one thing—new atomic weapons.

Hitherto, the atom bomb could be used only against cities where the destruction of civilians was such that public opinion rebelled against it. Now, however, atomic artillery shells and other weapons make it possible to confine the deadly destruction of atomic energy to enemy troops in the field.

This means that the civilian death toll can be divorced from the atom bomb, and that atom weapons will be used.

It also means that the red army cannot be stopped at the Rhine or at any large river. Because, to cross the Rhine, an invading army must concentrate at the bridgeheads. And large troop concentrations are perfect targets for atomic weapons. Thus divisions of the red army, forming to cross a bridge over the Rhine, could be decimated by these new weapons which make the Maginot line look like Cemetery hill at Gettysburg.

The above fact, under present-day diplomacy, is something we want the Kremlin to know. For Hitler would not have marched into Poland had he not felt certain of victory. Stalin will not march into western Europe if he knows what awaits him.

NOTE—The above is also why farsighted Sen. Brien McMahon's resolution to put more of our defense eggs in the atomic basket makes sense. We can save a lot of money, a lot of foot soldiers, a lot of lives, if we concentrate on more atomic research.

—ATOMIC NEWS NOTES—Hydrogen Bomb?—U.S. scientists are skeptical of the British news letter report that Bruno Pontecorvo, the escaped British scientist, taught the Russians how to make a hydrogen bomb. They are almost certain Moscow had not had time to make an H-bomb. . . . The new device could have been an improved baby-sized bomb—in which case the Russians are getting nearer to the type used in artillery shells, etc. . . . Pontecorvo, who eluded the British by going to Italy, then to Finland, then into Russia, will now be given Russian citizenship. He is credited with putting the latest bomb together.

Russian Experiments—It's no secret that the United States and other friendly nations have seismographs and Geiger counters stationed around Soviet borders to pick up earth tremors and uranium dust. Airplane patrols also take samples of dust out of the air to analyze them for uranium.

From these detection devices it seems clear that the Russians tried to set off an A-bomb several weeks ago which fizzled—perhaps because the trigger mechanism failed. This is the most delicate part of the A-bomb. . . . This failure was why the atomic commission reported to Truman quite recently that no Russian bombs had been set off. . . . The second attempt took place about 10 days ago and produced a low-grade explosion, apparently not nearly as powerful as our weaker A-bombs.

Soviet Potentialities—Best information on the future of the Russian A-bomb is that they have just as much scientific brains as we, but lag behind in technical know-how and large-scale production. Soviet scientists thoroughly understand the theory of atomic energy but in addition to poor production techniques the Russians are short of uranium and plutonium. . . . This is where the United States has gained its tremendous atomic superiority. Only sources of Russian uranium are the worn-out mines in east Germany and in the Jackomov region of Czechoslovakia. It was from the latter mines, incidentally, that a group of Czech miners deserted across the border into Germany last week carrying messages from freedom balloons. . . .

International Atomic Controls—Secretary Acheson is willing to make one more gesture toward world control of atomic energy—as a result of Stalin's recent feeler—though we have our fingers crossed. . . . Acheson will work only through the United Nations. There can be no separate dickerings with Russia. Furthermore, Acheson will not budge one inch from the Baruch plan for controlling the bomb and will insist on a foolproof system of international inspection to make sure the Russians keep their word. . . . Meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Alan Kirk has warned from Moscow that Stalin's statement about international control of the atom was merely for the purpose of preventing the use of our new atomic weapons in Korea. Stalin figured that if the U.S. were engaged in an international conference on atomic energy, we could prevent the British and French from disrupting such a conference by using atomic weapons while we were still talking. . . . Such strategy would permit the Chinese to build up more strength in Korea—while we talked.

U.S.-British Relations Steadily Grow Worse

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—Until after the British elections on October 25, there is apparently nothing that can be done about the worsening relationship between Great Britain and the United States and the collapse of what remains of western prestige and power in the Middle East. But whether that many days can still go the way of others recklessly squandered, no one can answer with a loud and confident "yes."

What no one officially dares to say is that the Iranian government wants the United States to intervene and, in effect, take over the technical direction of the huge British oil refinery at Abadan. Neither Premier Mossadegh nor anyone else in Iran could, of course, make such a request publicly. But their desires are well known.

Similarly, American intervention of a sort might save the situation in Egypt, which now promises to go the way of Iran. Turkey, recently admitted to the North Atlantic treaty organization, is most anxious to get Egypt to join in a separate eastern mediterranean command under an American commander. In spite of the fanatical nationalism in Egypt, matching that in Iran, this still might be possible.

But whether from the British viewpoint it can be undertaken, even after the feelings stirred by the election campaign have subsided, is highly questionable. And the reason is that Britain, increasingly on the defensive, becomes increasingly suspicious of American motives and the ultimate end of American policy. The alliance between the two countries has been seriously weakened, and it is folly to pretend otherwise.

This is reflected very clearly in the anti-American attitude in the left wing of the labor party, which was chiefly responsible for the recent victory within the party of the rebel, Aneurin Bevan. It is seen in an angry editorial in the London Economist, which charges a "Middle East Munich" dictated by Washington. The editorial has caused considerable concern, since the economist is so influential in its limited sphere.

Given the very human desire to put the blame on Washington, it is hard for the British to see in the midst of an election campaign how disastrous their own policy has been. Nevertheless, the Manchester Guardian has just printed the text of a secret document in the oil dispute re-

ITS the time of the year when men begin to eye faithful old shotguns longingly, and their wives begin to flatter the "providers" by setting aside part of the freezer for the season's catch.

But out at Pioneers Park, Fred Hoschele, 2225 St. Mary avenue, is busy at his year-round job of feeding the animals and especially tending the diminishing flock of wild ducks.

"Last year we had about 54 ducks," Hoschele said, "but this year only about 110 old ones and four young." The discrepancy seems to be an aftermath of the spring floods when many were able—literally—to float away to freedom.

THE only restrictive measure taken to keep the ducks in the ponds provided for them is the clipping of one of their wings. Otherwise the feathered creatures are carefully fed and allowed the freedom of their entire area, a duck haven.

Hoschele, who also is responsible for general jobs around the park, has done this work since 1938.

"It's a fine job," he asserted, as he busied himself feeding the ducks.

THE buffalo present another problem.

"We keep close to the truck around the buffalo," he asserted. "We haven't had trouble so far, but you never know."

One Sunday, Hoschele related, two women, cameras in hand, got almost up to the animals before they were noticed.

"We got signs now," he said. "Big signs."

Archer, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: One thing that endeared Karl Stefan to so many people was his interest in and concern for those to whom little attentions meant so much. A broadcaster from radio station WJAG, he laid the sound foundation for the unusual success in politics which he later enjoyed. The sick, the aged, his words of encouragement and compassionate sympathy. Every baby born in his territory came into the world with his blessing. The deer of some good deed was almost sure to hear some word of commendation. His humanity was broad and deep and, I believe, of unquestioned sincerity.

Age Of Miracles

Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: We are indeed living in an age of miracles, and television is one of them. There was a time when our folks were satisfied with their antiquated radio—"which by the way set me back plenty." Now we have a television set, and I ain't a bit pleased about it. There was a time when the old burlesque filled the bald-headed row in a rowdy legitimate theater, but now through the medium of TV, scantily clad dames are brought right into your home as the watchful eyes of mom are fixed upon you. Furthermore, the thrill of the old-time radio broadcast is gone with the personal appearance of the homely nightingale singer and the crooner whose voice once lulled into ethereal oblivion the women of the household is offset by a face worthy of "Uncle Tom's Cabin's" Simon Legree.

We are told it is essential to install TV into our homes for the advancement of our children's education, but someone must show me just what a two-gun villain of a fighting, gambling, drinking western picture has to do with the education of innocent kids.

And television upsets home life. Neighbors who in the good old prohibition days seemed to know when the next home brew was ready for sampling continue to come in to bust up a tired working man's quiet evening. I still long for the good old days when Pa, Ma, and the family sat around the old organ and sang "Home, Sweet Home," without all the trimmings of a modern production.

A Guest Editorial

Fred A. Seaton . . . New Tax Structure . . .

Editor's note: Mr. Fred Seaton, publisher of The Hastings Tribune, is also interested in other papers in Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming. A former member of the Nebraska unicameral, Mr. Seaton has long been an advocate of the sales tax.

In these days of astronomically high taxes, nobody wants to devise any new ones, if he can help it.

And so any proposal for a state sales tax in Nebraska receives about the same reception as an early frost.

Nevertheless, Nebraska must face up to an overhauling of her archaic taxing system.

Let's look at the facts. Nebraska, which rightly glories in her efficiency, more often than not enjoys the lowest per capita cost of government of any state. At the same time, she is always at or near the top in the amount of property tax levy. That's because she has so far refused to broaden the tax base.

All around us are states which enjoy the fruits of a state sales tax. South Dakota, Iowa, Kansas and Colorado all have such a tax and have a much lower property levy than does Nebraska.

One of the more specious arguments against a sales tax is that it would be "just another tax." Another is that it would hurt the little man more than anyone else. Neither will stand the light of logical examination.

The last several sessions of the legislature have given at least committee consideration to a sales tax. Each time the proposal has been thrown out. And each time after the legislature has gone home, the taxpayers have found their property levies increased. Taxes were not raised

Literary Understatement

Digging around in the files of the New York Times, one researcher found the following review of a new book in the edition of May 1, 1887:

"Capital, by Karl Marx . . . A man in a towering rage . . . remarkable book . . . the result of pure psychological spleen . . . To follow Marx's proposals is to plunge us into chaos. But there are advocates of chaos."

Little did the reviewer know that he was handling one of the hottest books to come off the literary-political griddle in many a year. And how rightly he diagnosed the end product of the theory in a single word: chaos.

Red Writer Rules

After reading about all the trouble newspaper and magazine writers get into when they fail to follow the party line in Soviet Russia, it seems as if they need some code under which to operate. The following rules, paraphrased from an old bit of advice suggested to army inductees, are offered to the Russian writers for what they may be worth:

- 1—Don't think.
- 2—If you must think, don't talk.
- 3—If you must talk, don't write it down.
- 4—If you must write it down, don't publish it.
- 5—If you must publish it, don't sign it.
- 6—If you must sign it, write a denial.

And, it might be added, if the denial doesn't work—well, don't bother.

Don't Come-A My House

Hollywood makes a practice of sending new films to the White House so that the president and his associates can see them before they are shown at regular theaters. One movie sent the other day, however, ran into difficulty. It turned out that Drew Pearson was in the picture, and no one is less welcome at the White House. The result was that the film was returned to Hollywood with thanks.

Pearson won't mind any of this at all. He unquestionably regards being disliked by various individuals for various reasons as a newspaper man's occupational hazard.

Refused To Give Up Custody Of Atomic Bomb To Army

Forrestal Diaries Made Public

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman was described Wednesday as having decided in 1948 to keep custody of atomic bombs himself instead of allowing military control because he didn't want "some dashing lieutenant colonel to decide when would be the proper time to drop one."

The late James Forrestal, first secretary of defense, told of that in the "Forrestal Diaries," the book form of which was issued Wednesday by Viking Press.

The atomic bomb and the fight of the air force against the economy cutbacks of 1947 are given major attention in the latter part of the diary. Forrestal started in 1944 while secretary of the navy and which he dropped a few weeks before he committed suicide in 1949.

Symington "Explains"

At one point, Forrestal wrote, he was so displeased by an address of W. Stuart Symington, then air secretary, at Los Angeles that he told President Truman he (Forrestal) would have to ask for Symington's resignation unless he could explain "an act of official disobedience and personal disloyalty."

Subsequently Forrestal advised Mr. Truman Symington had explained there were extenuating circumstances in the Los Angeles speech making.

On March 12, 1948, Forrestal told the president the joint chiefs of staff were of the opinion completed atomic bombs should be delivered to the military. He said he told Mr. Truman "the conditions of readiness of these weapons was highly uncertain—that what a civilian might think was ready would be a long way from readiness for battle use." Then in the following September he again told the president he still believed the physical custody of the bombs should be with the armed services.

DECISION MADE

Meanwhile, on July 15, the president had said he proposed to keep custody. Forrestal raised the "very serious question as to the wisdom of relying upon an agency other than the user of such a weapon."

About two weeks later, at a White House meeting, the national military establishment (which became the defense department) presented a formal request for a presidential order taking custody of the bomb from the atomic energy commission and delivering it to the military.

David Lilienthal, then AEC chairman, objected on several grounds. Forrestal said Mr. Truman indicated it would be possible to "take another look at the picture" after the election of that year.

Earlier in the diary, on June 22, 1947, Forrestal wrote that in a meeting with the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), then committee chairman, had made remarks which "would lead to the conclusion that he and his senate associates are very much concerned about a pacifist and unrealistic trend in the atomic energy commission."

Truman Sidelights

Forrestal put into his diary some sidelights on Mr. Truman. He wrote that in October, 1947, Mr.

Truman looked forward with misgivings to another four years in the presidency, saying if it were not his duty to run again in view of world conditions, he would step aside.

Forrestal said that in November, 1947, Mr. Truman wanted to put Gen. Omar Bradley, then veterans administrator in as army chief of staff but that the president did not want to ask Gen. Dwight Eisenhower to withdraw from that post although Forrestal wrote of the president's idea, "he thought he would take the hint." Eisenhower left and Bradley became chief of staff on Feb. 7.

County Real Estate Reappraisal Program Takes Step Forward

KEARNEY, Neb.—(AP)—The Buffalo county board of supervisors has taken the first step in a county real estate reappraisal program.

13% Cutback Ordered In Auto Production

Bigger Slash Is Ruled Out

... To Avoid Idleness

WASHINGTON (INS)—The government Wednesday ordered a 13.6 per cent cutback in automobile production starting Jan. 1 which will mean only 950,000 new cars in the first three months of 1952.

The order was issued after officials ruled out a contemplated 30 per cent slash because of the threat of substantial unemployment in the automobile industry.

Meanwhile, five top executives representing almost the entire steel industry demanded that the government increase price ceilings on their products and tighten up on allocations of the strategic metal.

The decision to scrap the larger cutback from the 1,100,000 cars turned out during October, November and December this year was reached during an inter-agency meeting at the defense production administration.

The steel executives told Defense Mobilizer Wilson and DPA Chief Manly Fleischmann that steel consumers are overstating their requirements and are asking the government for allocations before the steel actually can be used.

The industry spokesman proposed that the government clamp down on these practices by screening all allotment applications more closely and by halting further increases in steel inventories.

Hall Starts Doing Time

Fugitive Communist Imprisoned In Texas

TEXARKANA, Tex. — (AP) — Gus Hall, fugitive communist party secretary, started a five-year prison sentence here Wednesday less than 24 hours after he was captured in Mexico City and shoved back across the border.

The husky communist bond jumper, heavily guarded by FBI agents, was rushed by plane to the federal correctional institution here.

The justice department announced in Washington Hall would not have any further arraignment in open court. He was one of four communist party officials who jumped bail and fled from New York last July to avoid imprisonment for conspiracy to advocate the overthrow of the U.S. government.

Swift Action
The department said Hall was in the Texarkana institution "for the time being." Whether he will serve all of his time here has not been decided.

The swift movement across the international boundary at Laredo, Tex., foiled an effort by the Mexican communist party to have Mexico give Hall asylum as a political refugee.

Hall is 41. He and three other top U.S. communists jumped $80,000 bail. They and seven others—now in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga.—were convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate overthrow of the government by violence.

Three Still Sought
Still at large are Robert Thompson, Gilbert Green and Henry Winston. The Civil Rights Congress put up the bail and lost it when the four ran off. An international search began.

Mexican secret police brought Hall across the border at Laredo at 3 a.m. (CST). FBI agents were waiting. They picked up Hall at the U.S. immigration station. By 7 a.m. they had flown him to Texarkana.

Candidates are to be judged on personality, appearance and record of achievement in their home communities. Three judges will make the selection.

The 1951 Wheat Show is sponsored by the Nebraska Grain Improvement association, the Sidney chamber of commerce, the Nebraska Crop Improvement association, the University of Nebraska college of agriculture and the Omaha chamber of commerce.

Dr. Witty says the common belief that the gifted child is emotional and puny is wrong—he is generally large for his years and more active than the average.

Conferees Agree Tentatively On Personal Income Tax Boost Of 11 3/4 Per Cent For Most Of Nation's Taxpayers

WASHINGTON — (INS) — House-senate conferees agreed tentatively Wednesday night on a compromise personal income tax boost which would mean a reported 11 3/4 per cent increase for the most of the nation's taxpayers.

The tax writers, breaking through an earlier threatened deadlock, also eliminated the house plan for withholding dividends, interest and royalties which would have raised an estimated 323 million dollars.

The conference committee recessed until Thursday and made no formal announcement of just where the new tax on individual incomes would fall.

The house voted for a flat 12 1/2 per cent personal tax hike, but the senate approved an alternative approach which would add 11 per cent to the tax of most persons.

It May Be Changed

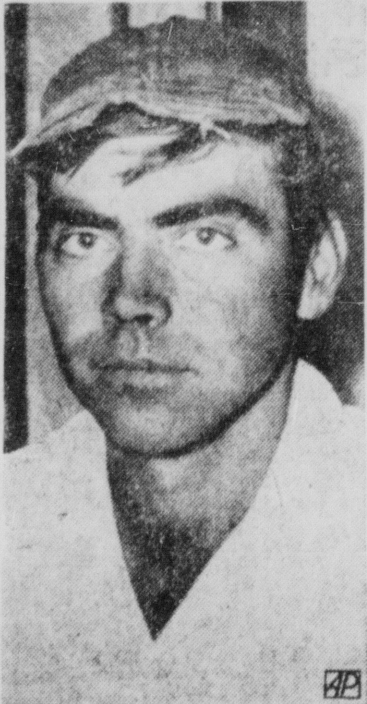

But it was reliably reported that the compromise rate affecting most taxpayers — as tentatively adopted and subject to possible change Thursday — would be at the 11 3/4 per cent level.

Members emphasized that the agreement on this point was made tentative because they wished to check tables overnight and see how the compromise rate would affect each bracket on taxable income.

Conferees still have to tackle the disputed excess profits credit issue, and the matter of taxing co-operatives, mutual savings banks and building and loan associations.

Jenner Plan Accepted

Other decisions made by the conferees Wednesday included limiting the loss carry-over on 1948-49 income to three years instead of four, and accepting the Jenner amendment which bans withholding of federal public assistance funds from states which have laws permitting publication of names of recipients.

The Jenner proposal was amended by the conferees to provide that such state laws prohibit the use of relief recipients' names for either commercial or political purposes.

Four Zoning Cases To Be Held At Thursday Meeting

The city zoning board of appeals will hold hearings on four zoning applications Thursday, including a request for local business classification of six lots at Forty-ninth and A.

As presented by attorneys for Jake Breslow, who is asking the local business change, the matter is directly related to the request of the Shurtliff Building and Development Corp. for local business of two corners at Forty-eighth and A. It has been suggested that both matters be heard at the same time.

Other applications to be heard Thursday are:

Mrs. O. E. Clough for permit to operate a child care center at 1125 South Thirty-seventh.

Vernon B. Lewis for permit to construct and maintain wholesale and retail petroleum products service buildings near Nineteenth and Adams, beyond the city limits.

C. R. Matson, for garage setback line at 4100 Sheridan.

Oscar L. Ward for renewal of temporary permit to do general repairs and run work at 2937 Potter.

Sentence Deferred

Sentence was deferred pending investigation of Eugene V. Copley, 30, 1021 Q street, who pleaded guilty in District court to a charge of failure to pay alimony for child support.

Judge Harry R. Ankeny asked Adult Probation Officer George H. Meyer to investigate Copley's record. Deputy County Attorney Herbert A. Ronin said Copley failed to pay $65 child support for the month of August.

Gustavson Speech Seeks De-emphasis Of Athletics

Chancellor Asks Students For Education Purpose Reappraisal

Chancellor R. G. Gustavson of the University of Nebraska Wednesday asked students to reappraise the purposes of higher education and called for a major de-emphasis of football.

The chancellor spoke to about 4,000 students attending the first all university convocation of the school year. He likened his address to a corporation president's annual report to the stockholders.

Going through an analysis of the university's faculty, student body and campus activities and organizations the chancellor ended his address with a four point program for intercollegiate athletics. His points were:

"First, I believe that all off-season practices, including spring practice for football, should be eliminated.

"Second, freshmen should be denied the privilege of participating in intercollegiate athletics. The freshman year should be devoted to an adjustment of the student to the academic life of colleges and universities.

"Third, all post-season contests, including so-called 'bowl games' should be eliminated.

"Fourth, every student participating in intercollegiate athletics must make normal progress toward graduation."

The chancellor recommended his program "for American colleges and universities to follow in establishing a more rational relationship between intercollegiate athletics and their academic programs."

"Entertaining General Public" Stating that athletics were originally planned for competitive play and to develop the body physically Dr. Gustavson asserted that athletics have increasingly become a method for entertaining the general public on Saturday afternoons.

The chancellor had stated earlier that the university's building program was progressing. As important as that is, however, said Dr. Gustavson, far more important are the student body and faculty.

"The university," he said, "has a good faculty." Many of the instructors, he said, could find better paying jobs in private industry but remain at the university because of the satisfaction gained through teaching.

Standing up for the freedom of the students the chancellor told them that "you are not here to be indoctrinated." He urged a rejection of intolerance, injustice, ignorance and prejudice. He called instead for a spirit of restlessness, of perpetual quest for truth, of seeking constantly an answer to why things are as they are and a spirit of tolerance, justice and understanding.

In the student's university life, he said, there are some organizations that work for an improved and more enlightened society. As examples he cited the Nebraska University Council on World Affairs, the Daily Nebraskan, the All University Fund, Student Union Activities committee and others.

There are also those groups, he said, which are dedicated to selfishness and prejudice. Those, he said, must be eliminated.

The chancellor drew a parallel between fraternities and sororities and the various fraternal orders common to community life. These, he said, "frequently make fine contributions to their communities and to their memberships."

Goehner Four-Time Winner Of Grange Community Award

25% Rise Seen For Ag Output

For Missouri Valley Region; Prediction Made By Minnesotan

Goehner Grange of Seward county walked off for the fourth year in a row with the Nebraska state grange's "community service" award. The Goehner group has been among the top 10 in the national Grange service contest for the past three years, and won second place last year.

The annual awards made to the local Granges rendering top service to their communities were a highlight of the Wednesday night banquet at the Lincoln hotel, held as a part of the forty-first annual session of the state grange.

Friend Grange of Saline county was recognized as second place winner in the community service contest, while Oak Valley Grange at Valparaiso in Saunders county placed third. Elkhorn Grange of Douglas county was named honorable mention winner by Tom Leadley, of Lincoln, who made the presentation of awards.

William B. Pearson, master of the Minnesota state Grange, in giving the banquet address, predicted: "Missouri valley development, through flood control, irrigation and the production of power, will, with proper follow through, increase the output of the agriculture of this region 25 per cent in two decades."

Electricity Warning Sounded

The Minnesota Grange master told Nebraska Grange members that "our past experience with the private utilities would indicate that power will come to our farms more cheaply if transmission lines are built and owned by the bureau of reclamation." Farmers should watch this very closely, he said, because of the influence of cheap electricity on production costs.

Pearson declared the St. Lawrence seaway should be completed. "It has been held up for 20 years," the Minnesotan declared, "by the power interests in New York state and the railroads."

The Minnesota Grange master stood up for the agricultural price support program, pointing to it as a stabilizing and not an inflationary factor. "It is time our bureaucrats look at the facts and stop giving false information," he declared.

Redistricting Approved

During business meetings Wednesday the Nebraska Grange members went on record as opposed to federal aid on a large scale to education on a large scale would also mean federal control of education and higher taxes for administration. The Grange does not, however, object to special aid for vocational education on present levels.

In approving the 1949 legislature's school redistricting law, the Nebraska Grange urged members who live in small districts with a few pupils to consolidate into a single and large educational unit. Other Grange committees worked late Wednesday on additional resolutions, including one on soil conservation and flood control, which were expected to be introduced during Thursday business meetings.

Other Wednesday Grange business saw Prof. M. A. Alexander of the University of Nebraska re-elected as a member of the Grange's executive council. Alexander, the only officer up for election this year, will be installed Thursday.

Grange contest winners included Annette Glandt of the Elkhorn grange, who won first place in the essay contest on highway safety. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Glandt of Elkhorn. Other placers in the essay contest were: second, Marilyn Maxson of Valparaiso; and third, Norma Elaine Smith of Broken Bow.

Juvenile grange contest winners were announced as follows by Mrs. Alice L. Pearson, national juvenile superintendent: Fire prevention: first, Dorchester; second, Waverly; third, Custer Center; fourth, Goehner; fifth, Riverview.

Junior Lecturer's scrapbook: first, Goehner; second, Dorchester.

Pot holders: first, Charlene Dickau, Goehner.

Tea Towels: first, Linda Mienberg, Goehner; second, Wila Ann Kasper, Dorchester.

Aquatics: first, Barbara Ann Voth, Goehner; second, Patricia Kuhn, Riverview.

Bird Houses: first, Robert Weber, Dorchester; second, Marvin Snyder, Waverly.

Hobby contest: first, Jeany Voth, Goehner; second, Leroy Snyder, Waverly; third, Patricia Kuhn, Riverview; fourth, Bobby Lingo, Riverview.

National Juvenile Essay contest winners in age groups included first places won both by Bobby Lingo of Riverview and Johnny Whitney of Custer Center. Walter Dietz of Custer Center won the Grange's forest, farm and garden contest.

The forty-first annual session of the Nebraska state Grange ends Thursday afternoon following a day of business meetings, installation of officers, committee reports and discussion of programs for the coming year.

ATLANTA, Neb.—(Lincoln Star Special) — Funeral services for about 30, and her 3-year-old daughter, Gale Ann, died several hours later in a hospital.

An investigation revealed that the blast resulted after Mrs. Leach apparently poured kerosene into an old-fashioned cooking stove while she was preparing breakfast. Three of the youngsters, Linda, 5, Steven, 4, and Stanley, 2, perished instantly.

Livestock Breeders Meeting Next Week

Robert M. Koch of the university staff will discuss the Nebraska beef cattle breeding project. Dr. John Matsushima will discuss new angles in feeding anti-biotics to livestock. Dr. Merle J. Brinegar will talk on the possibilities and limitations of pig hatcheries. Office of price stabilization regulations as they affect Nebraska farmers will be outlined by Prof. Charles H. Adams.

Milford Trade School Investigation Urged By NFL

New Board Member Is Requested

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. — (AP) The Nebraska Federation of Labor Wednesday asked that the Nebraska legislature investigate the advisability of closing the Nebraska State Training school at Milford.

The action came in a series of resolutions adopted at the final session of the federation's state meeting. All officers were re-elected without opposition.

They include: Gordon Preble, Omaha, president; E. F. (Bill) Noble, Grand Island, first vice-president; Jack Renault, Scottsbluff, second vice-president; Fay F. Bowerman, Omaha, third vice-president; W. E. (Wally) Snyder, Hastings, fourth vice-president; George Williams, Lincoln, secretary-treasurer; and Alvin Kostlan, Grand Island, Lincoln, sergeant-at-arms.

The 1952 convention was voted to Norfolk.

The resolution referring to the trade school instructed the legislative agent of the federation to acquaint members of the Nebraska legislature with the "apparent lack of acceptance by employers" of the products of the training school.

This resolution, without mentioning names, asked that Governor Val Peterson be requested to remove the present labor representative on the advisory board of the school and "to consult the Nebraska Federation of Labor" on a successor "acceptable as a representative of labor."

The delegates also took official notice of a recent move by the League of Nebraska Municipalities calling for a committee to investigate "special treatment" given firefighters of the state. They said in another resolution they would oppose any and all legislation which would be detrimental to the firefighters of Nebraska.

Another resolution, opposed by the Missouri valley development committee of the federation, asked that all valley projects now in abeyance be reactivated, and opposed any more cuts in appropriations. The committee said the reason for its stand is the shortage of electric power and the need for irrigation water.

The convention ended Wednesday.

$250,000 Blaze Laid To Cigaret

OMAHA—(AP)—A fire, probably started from a discarded cigarette, badly damaged the interior of the Music Box in downtown Omaha Wednesday.

The Music Box is a combination ballroom, cocktail lounge and bowling alley. Firemen had to stretch out one of their tall aerial ladders to rescue Mrs. H. A. Taylor, trapped in a fourth floor penthouse apartment in the brick building.

Fire Capt. Dan Mulcahey estimated the loss at $150,000 to $250,000 but said the building and contents were insured for $405,000.

Heavy Water Damage
Mulcahey said preliminary investigation indicated the fire started in a pressed cardboard drum with a metal bottom, used as a container for floor sweepings and other refuse. He said it was believed a cigarette which had been swept up ignited other papers in the drum.

There was only smoke damage in the fourth floor apartment, occupied by Mrs. Taylor and her husband, owner of the establishment. But bowling alleys located on the third floor were an 80 per cent loss and there was water damage to the second floor cocktail lounge and the main floor ballroom, Mulcahey said. The dance floor apparently was ruined.

with New Conoco Super Motor Oil!"

says John Orahoad
Crop Duster
Ordway, Colorado

"For a man who makes his living in a plane, I sure put a lot of miles on my automobile," says John Orahoad, crop duster. "Contacting customers and looking over fields keeps me on the road. So when I heard about 50,000 Miles—No Wear, I changed over to new Conoco Super Motor Oil."

"I've driven more than 50,000 miles since then. So I know ... 50,000 Miles—No Wear has sure been true for my car. It runs just like new, and the gasoline mileage is fine. And Conoco Super works just as well in my airplane, too!"

Change Now—For Summertime Performance All Winter! Protect your engine from winter's rasping wear. Change to new Conoco Super Motor Oil, with Oil-PLATING. Get quick starts, fast pickup, better performance all winter.

Proof of 50,000 Miles—No Wear! After a punishing 50,000 mile road test, with proper drains and regular care, engines lubricated with new Conoco Super Motor Oil showed no wear of any consequence: in fact, an average of less than one one-thousandth inch on cylinders and crankshafts. Factory finishing marks were still visible on piston rings! Gasoline mileage for the last 5,000 miles was actually 99.77% as good as for the first 5,000!

Look! party treats Made with cottage cheese

By MARY MANNING

The next time you have a party, make your "party treats" with Fairmont Cottage Cheese. Your canapes and sandwiches will be fresh-tasting, delicious and full of zesty flavor.

Mary Manning

Here are just a few suggestions how these party ideas can be made with fresh full-flavored Fairmont Cottage Cheese.

Cottage Cheese Roquefort Canapes

Add 2 ounces of crumbled Roquefort or Blue cheese to 1 cup Fairmont Cottage Cheese. Mix in 1/4 tsp. salt and four drops of Tabasco sauce. Spread on thin slices of buttered bread. Garnish with ripe olives.

Cottage Cheese Anchovy Canapes

Spread canapes with Fairmont Cottage Cheese. Place a rolled anchovy in center of each canape. Garnish with chopped parsley. For variety, try a half sardine instead of the anchovy.

Ala Daba Cottage Cheese Canapes

Mix one package Fairmont Cottage Cheese with 1/4 tsp. garlic powder, 1/4 tsp. onion salt and 1/4 tsp. celery salt. Add 1 tablespoon chopped parsley for color. Serve on buttered bread, crisp crackers, or potato chips.

No other cottage cheese is like Fairmont. It's always so fresh! So delicious! So full of zesty flavor. Taste it just as it comes from the carton—that's the way to test cottage cheese for flavor. You'll agree Fairmont Cottage Cheese is marvelous.

Your grocer has Fairmont Cottage Cheese in his dairy food case. Why not surprise your family with some of these gay treats tonight.

ALWAYS FRESH!

Gustavson Scores Collegiate Football Practices

Giants See Three Successive Efforts Chopped Short Of Goal

"First, I believe that all off-season practices, including spring practice for football, should be eliminated." "Second, freshmen should be denied the privilege of participating in intercollegiate athletics." "Third, all post-season contests, including so-called post-season bowl games should be eliminated." "Fourth, every student participating in intercollegiate athletics must make normal progress toward graduation." "If a boy is making unsatisfactory progress, he should not be taking time to participate in extracurricular activities."

Athletic Department Has No Comment On Sweeping Changes Recommended

By NORRI ANDERSON
(Sports Editor, The Star)

A flat "no comment" sign hung over the University athletic department Wednesday on Chancellor R. G. Gustavson's talk on the overemphasis of college athletics.

Coach J. William Glassford of the Huskers, who has always maintained a close liaison with the chancellor, said he had no statement to make on the recommendations.

In previous statements, Glassford has always maintained his team's fall performance depended on how much was accomplished the previous spring.

Speaking at the first all-university convocation Wednesday morning, the chancellor recommended four steps for American colleges and universities to follow in establishing a more national relationship between intercollegiate athletics and their academic programs.

ELIMINATE PRACTICES

"First, I believe that all off-season practices, including spring practice for football, should be eliminated," the chancellor told the students.

"Second, freshmen should be denied the privilege of participating in intercollegiate athletics. The freshman year should be devoted to an adjustment of the student to the academic life of colleges and universities."

"Third, all post-season contests, including so-called post-season bowl games, should be eliminated."

See Page One

In an exclusive feature on Page One, The Star presents a survey of Big Seven presidents on Chancellor Gustavson's recommendations.

All conference presidents were reached except the heads of Iowa State and Kansas State. They all agreed with Chancellor Gustavson.

See Page One for their opinions.

An 18-year-old freshman footballer, who has seen varsity duty this fall, thought "it would be better for us if we played a year together on the freshman squad."

"The trips and everything take too much time when you are a freshman," he continued. "It is during the freshman year that you have to take all of the required subjects and your classroom schedule is the heaviest."

He asked that his name not be used.

Two upperclass griders opined that spring drills were a drudgery "but were necessary."

Under the present Big Seven rules, members must limit spring football drills over any six-week period decided by the individual school.

Husker basketball and indoor track candidates are already working out. The basketball season opens in early December and indoor track gets under way in early January.

FOLLOWS N.C.A.A.

The Chancellor's platform follows the points set forth in a recent meeting of the National College Athletic Association board, which recently requested member schools to set forth their position on the generally recognized evils besetting intercollegiate athletics.

In the 12 points drawn by the N.C.A.A. after polling its members, the first called for "confining practice seasons to the recognized season of the sport."

The second and third points dealt with schedules. The N.C.A.A. suggested a limit on the number of games in each sport, particularly football and basketball, either through curtailment of the season or definite game limitations. The association then suggested a re-examination of post-season games in the light of the pressures they create.

Remainder of the N.C.A.A.'s twelve-point program in deals, largely, with limiting grants-in-aid, requirements for admission and to the free substitution rule in football.

Dean Harry Carlson, athletic director at Colorado university, wrote in his reply to the N.C.A.A.: "The platform system has been a big factor in increasing the staggering costs of college football. This rule has also been criticized as the chief reason for our present big time college football."

Other Big Seven schools are expected to follow the N.C.A.A. code.

Chancellor George Cross of the University of Oklahoma has already gone on record against bowl games. Oklahoma has appeared in three straight New Year's contests.

Chancellor Gustavson is the first Big Seven president to openly suggest spring football practices be eliminated.

The other Big Seven chancellors are expected to follow the Nebraska recommendations which are strictly in line with the N.C.A.A.'s 12 points.

N.U. Students Behind Chancellor Gustavson On Athletic Policy

By JIM CLARK
(Star Sports Staff Member)

NEBRASKA could easily become the school to take the lead in de-emphasizing intercollegiate athletics, a possibility indicated by University of Nebraska Chancellor R. G. Gustavson in an all-university convocation speech Wednesday morning.

Although various views were expressed concerning the text of the Chancellor's speech, the majority of persons interviewed stood behind Gustavson and his four-point program.

Dr. Walter K. Beggs, head of the athletic board, termed it, "a very worthy cause." "It follows what the National Collegiate Athletic Association is trying to do," he said.

On the campus, Bruce Kennedy stated that "I go along with the Chancellor on everything except his plan to terminate off-season practices. This is really the only chance coaches have of picking out promising athletes before the season opens."

STUDENT SPEAKS

"I agree with the Chancellor," said student Virginia Magdanz, "but it will be a slow progress to get athletics back to former standards. Although fond of intercollegiate contests, I still don't think they should be allowed to reach the point where they reflect on scholarship attainment."

"I think he is trying for something that will never be reached," said L. B. Day, a junior from Lincoln. "Sports help put a school on the map and besides they have gotten too far out of hand."

"The Chancellor has some very good points," says freshman Frank Carver, "but in times such as these, I think more consideration should be given to freshmen participating in intercollegiate athletics. After all it is more or less up to the individual whether he will strive for scholastic attainment or come to school merely to be an athlete."

'I'd Play It Just The Same,' Declares Proud Durocher

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK — (AP) — Leo Durocher stoutly turned his back Wednesday on any second guessing.

"I'd play the Series just the way we played it if I had another chance," he said, his voice husky and his face taut.

"They're all champions in my book—all the Giants."

When everything was over, Durocher slumped down in his chair in the visiting manager's office under Yankee Stadium. The team that came from dismal last in the National league to win the pennant and battle the Yankees right down to the finish in the World Series was quiet, as beaten champions always are.

Durocher has been all charm this past week and he was almost that Wednesday—but there was more salt in his speech than formerly.

"You can't hit a ball any better than that. Damn, I thought it was in there. If it had been a foot or two either way it would have been a hit."

NEVER GAVE UP

Everyone understood he was talking about Sal Yvar's sinking liner that Hank Bauer caught falling to end the game.

"Those boys played like hell," Durocher went on. "They never gave up. But we couldn't get a hit when we needed one."

"When the ninth came up (and the Yankees were ahead, 4-1), they all said 'Hell, we got three big outs, let's go out and get 'em.' They've had a great year. They're champions."

Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants, was one of the first into the dressing room.

"He congratulated all the boys on a real fine season," said Leo.

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — (INS) — Hank Bauer, who won a purple heart in the South Pacific, won baseball's medal of honor Wednesday with a blazing triple that gave the Yankees a memory-searing 4-3 triumph over the Giants and a third straight World championship.

The massive ex-marine landed on a 3-and-2 pitch, flung at him by Dave Koslo in the sixth inning of what was then a tense 1-1 game. The bases were loaded, two men were out, and 61,711 shivering fanatics moved to the edge of their composite seat.

When the smoke and lightning of his 3-base hit subsided the Yanks led 4-1.

But the Giants, one of the most enchanting ball clubs ever to represent the National league in a World Series, just would not quit. They fought back savagely in an effort to stay the Yankee juggernaut, and they came so close to winning in the last minutes and sending the series into a seventh game that even the Yankee fans stood in stricken awe of their refusal to choke.

The men of Leo Durocher drove winning Pitcher Vic Raschi out of the box in the seventh with singles by Willie Mays and Pinch-hitter Bill Rigney before Johnny Sain put out the fire and stilled the rebellion.

In the eighth, with two away, the Giants filled the bases on walks to Hank Thompson and Mays and a looping single by Wes Westrum, who tried to check his swing and accidentally parked a single into short center.

Durocher scraped his near-empty barrel of reserves in search of a climactic pinch-hitter but could only come up with Ray Noble, huge Negro utility catcher—and Sain fired a great sidearm curve past him for a called third strike, ending the eighth with the bases loaded.

Somehow, somewhere, the Giants found a new arsenal of aggression in the ninth. What they barely failed to achieve will be mourned by succeeding generations of Giants' rooters. But what they did achieve—two runs and a scorching threat of others—was a fitting epitaph of their unforgettable season.

Eddie Stanky, an irrepressible bundle of fight, led off the ninth with a single down the left field line. Alvin Dark bunted superbly, pulled Sain out of position, and easily beat the throw to first base. Whitey Lockman mused a Texas leaguer into right—and the bases were loaded with none out! More than pandemonium now reigned in Yankee stadium. A ray of sunshine knifed through the clammy air of the place, illuminating not only the players but a striking memory among the fans.

KUZAVA IN

Something just like this had happened exactly a week before, when the Giants came up from 1-4 in the ninth to win the pennant from the Dodgers.

Stengel ditched Sain in favor of lefthanded Bob Kuzava at this point.

The deadly parallel continued as Irvin became the first out of the inning, with a tremendous fly to left which scored Stanky and moved Dark and Lockman up a base.

And then along to the plate strode Bobby Thomson—whose homerun a week ago had put the cinderella team on top. He took a first strike, as he had before. But the lightning had no appetite for striking twice in an identical spot. Kuzava, a man in a difficult spot, caused Thomson to sky out to left, after which Dark scored with the run that shaved the Yankee lead to 4-3.

SAL CONNECTS

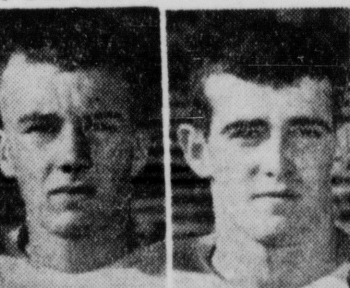

Leo called on Sal Yvars to bat for Hank Thompson. Sal connected with everything in him and for a split second it seemed a certain hit and one that might tie the score—for Lockman was streaking for home.

But into the path of the ball, thundering up to meet it like a man wanting to run through a brick wall, came Bauer.

Bauer had won this game once

On Overemphasis Of College Football

"YOU know, looking at that Nebraska campus and watching the football team, I sort of wish I had gone to school there. It was John Derek, the movie hero talking as The Firing Line drew him up to Omaha the other night."

He's a broad-shouldered lad, 6-feet tall and 185 pounds and looks like he can fill the starring role in his current film, Saturday's Hero.

The film, a critical outlook on the over emphasis of college football, depicts John as a footballer in a mercenary southern school who is rejected after a shoulder separation deals him out of further action on the gridiron.

"We have been very unpopular around college football fields since making the film," Derek says. "It shows how college football is sort of getting out of hand."

He said that while making the movie they had no idea that the West Point scandal and similar examples of overemphasis would make it so timely.

Derek, who is touring with the film, said everyone seems to agree on its subject except the college coaches themselves. Chancellor R. G. Gustavson, the great University of Nebraska leader, Wednesday expressed his beliefs in the first all-university convocation.

The Chancellor's approach to the subject was sensible and far-sighted.

HE noted that the American university has gradually limited athletics to a relatively small number of students and it deals primarily with those who do not need the exercise as far as developing strong physical bodies is concerned.

He advocated four remedies for the overemphasis trend: (1) That all off-season practices, including spring practice for football, should be eliminated. (2) That freshmen should be denied the privilege of participating in intercollegiate athletics. (3) That all post-season contests should be eliminated, and (4) That every student participating in intercollegiate athletics must make normal progress toward graduation.

We would agree entirely with all four points except the elimination of spring football.

That provides the only chance for a college coach to screen his fresh candidates. There is simply not time for screening in the several frantic weeks before the season opens.

Through Husker tradition, a coach has usually decided on his fall squad at the end of spring drills.

It would be grossly unfair for any football team to meet another team which had not participated in spring drills. If such a rule is made, it must be nationally established to fit every college gridiron.

The Chancellor's statement on scholastic attainment is a masterpiece. It should be framed and placed in every college field-house in the country.

Too many athletes are graduating from colleges these days without fully attaining their full enrichment of mind and spirit.

CHANCELLOR Gus is a thorough sports fan. He enjoys the competitive thrill of fine, clean college athletics.

Between he and Coach Glassford there exists as close a bond as you will ever see between a college chancellor and his football coach. This mutual respect and friendly liaison has been one of the pleasant features of the Glassford regime.

The chancellor, in no way, was pointing at the Husker athletic department. He realizes the frantic plight of collegiate athletics in general. He offered a remedy along the line of thinking of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

We expect other Big Seven schools to follow the chancellor's recommendations.

Ex-Card Star To Pitch In Omaha All-Star Tilt

OMAHA — (AP) — A former Omaha Cardinal baseball star will handle the pitching assignment for the National league in tonight's exhibition game here with the American league all-stars.

Pitchers Larry Jansen and George Spencer and infielder Bill Rigney of the Giants, and Outfielder Hank Bauer and Catcher Charles Silveira of the Yanks are expected to arrive in Omaha in time for the game. Richie Ashburn of the Phillies will replace Duke Snider of Brooklyn.

Michigan Legislators Would Compel Grid TV

LANSING, Mich. — (AP) — The University of Michigan and Michigan State college would be required to permit televising of football games under a legislative measure prepared Wednesday.

If such a measure were passed it would be in direct conflict with the agreement among Western conference schools not to permit televising of games except under the NCAA experimental program.

Layne Starts Fast, Fades After Sixth

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — Ezzard Charles returned Wednesday night to the Forbes Field ring in Pittsburgh where he lost his heavyweight title to begin a comeback with a savage 11th-round technical knockout of Rex Layne.

Referee Buck McTiernan stopped it at 2:32 of the 11th after a hard right by the 30-year-old former champion had put the scrappy Layne down for a nine count.

For six rounds, it was an even scrap. Then Ezzard began firing deadly combinations and lost only one more round—the ninth—when he seemed to coast.

The bell had saved the Lewiston, Utah, battler at the end of the tenth, when he went down under a barrage of Charles blows delivered as he stood helplessly with his back against the ropes.

It was the first fight for Charles since his seventh-round kayo by Jersey Joe Walcott in this same ring in July. Layne, too, had been stopped in his last outing by unbeaten Rocky Marciano.

Ezzard, heavier at 188 pounds than ever before in his ring career, seemed rusty and missed badly at times. He started slowly but by the eighth round was shooting the works for a knockout.

Layne, who weighed 155½, carried his attack to Charles' fabled weakness for body blows, particularly in the early rounds, and used his weight to force Charles backward.

Sacred Heart May Be Tough For Bluebirds

BY JIM CLARK
(Star Sports Staff Member)

Another undefeated team faces the Cathedral Bluebirds Thursday night as they fight to retain their first place standing in state six-man ratings.

Coach Vince Aldrich will send his charges against Sacred Heart of Norfolk, who have three wins and a tie with Leigh to their credit. Game time is 8 p.m., on the College View gridiron.

Knocking Axtell from the undefeated ranks by a score of 73-26 last week proved costly for the Bluebird sextet. John Steinauer, with a bruised knee, and Ed Cripe, with a pulled leg muscle, are both doubtful performers. Steinauer is currently leading the Bluebird scorers with 77 points and Cripe is next in line with 65.

Aldrich, who expressed the desire for a comparatively easy game this week, said that in view of past performances another test is expected. He was talking of the Bluebirds' 45-6 win over Dwight Assumption while Sacred Heart beat them 28-6. Aldrich termed the Sacred Heart team as a light but very aggressive and fast ball club.

DRILLS LIGHT

In light of the two injuries and the rugged game last week, Aldrich has kept his practice sessions down to a minimum this week.

Tom Rice and John Gourlay have been selected to captain the Bluebirds.

The starting lineup for Cathedral will be:

Link Seconds Blast Fremont Jrs., 42-0

Coach Harold Scott's Lincoln runs of up to ten yards. End reserves, looking like an entirely different team than the one that lost last week to Boys Town, Wednesday afternoon romped over the visiting Fremont seconds to the tune of 42-0. The Links led, 35-0, at the half.

Russ Nielsen accounted for three of the Links' TDs as he scored on runs of up to ten yards. End Sam Ellis took a 15-yard pass from Jack Curtis for one tally; End Dick Giebelhaus picked up a blocked kick and jaunted 20 yards for another score and Doug Scott drove eight yards down the middle to add the Links' final TD.

Curtis made three conversions on runs and Nielsen and Scott each added another.

Lions Should Be Favored By Four TD's, Says Bill

BY NORRIS ANDERSON

"PENN STATE should be favored by four touchdowns." Thus did Coach J. William Glassford of the Nebraska Cornhuskers greet the news that odds-makers are rating the Penn State game Saturday as a toss-up.

"On their performance in the last two games, they should be heavily favored," moaned the maestro, who prefers an underdog role.

His Huskers rated as two-touchdown favorites over both Texas Christian and Kansas State, yet were mired in a defeat and a tie.

"We still haven't proven to anyone that we can score touchdowns." Glassford hustled his squad through a long session on fundamentals and defense against Penn State plays.

FROSH ADVANCE

Two frosh squad members were moved up. They were Halfbacks Jim Cederdahl and George Gohde, who played Saturday with the frosh against the Missouri yearlings.

They are insurance in case Tom

Carodine, injured against Kansas State, is unable to play Saturday.

Carodine, Linebacker Cliff Hopp, Halfback Bobby Reynolds, and End George Paynich are on the injured list.

"There's a good chance Hopp will play," said Glassford. Hopp, rated a key man in the secondary defense, missed both the opening games with a bruised arm.

PAYNICH OUT

Paynich, whose injured leg is in a cast, will definitely not play Saturday and may not see action against Minnesota a week later.

Reynolds is also a doubtful participant against the Gophers. Glassford said Saturday's starting lineup had not yet been determined.

"We still have a lot of proving to do," he concluded.

Tackle Wayne Handshy, roughed up in Tuesday's scrimmage, did not suit up. He is expected to be back in suit today.

Lt. General Franklin A. Hart, commandant of the Marine Corps schools, Quantico, Va., was a member of the varsity football, track and soccer teams at Auburn from 1911 through 1914.

Full Pardon Is Given To Indiana Man By Board

11 Inmates Are Granted Clemency

Clemency pleas of 12 inmates of the penitentiary and men's reformatory were considered favorably by the state pardon and parole board Wednesday with only a single exception.

Denied was the plea of DeWayne Zeluf, 22, Omaha, who was sentenced to 3-5 years in the men's reformatory in Douglas county while serving in the army air force at Offutt air field. Zeluf and two companions were accused of picking up three other soldiers from the base and then driving under a viaduct in Omaha where they beat the three passengers and robbed them of their billfolds and other personal possessions.

Other actions by the board: Tony Vasquez, 46, now a painter in East Chicago, Ind., received a full pardon from a breaking and entering sentence he served in the reformatory in the 1930s.

Clears Immigration Record

Vasquez, who was sent to the reformatory from Morrill county in 1933, asked for the pardon to clear his record with immigration authorities.

He is a native of Mexico. Responsible East Chicago residents wrote the board he has been a good citizen, and is making good wages to support his wife and crippled daughter.

His case came to the attention of the immigration authorities when an intruder attempted to break into his home last year.

Vasquez was paroled from the reformatory in 1934 after serving 14 months of a one-to-five year sentence.

Other actions:

Alvin Stolley, 30, Omaha, forgery and violation bench parole, Douglas county, five years, 1950, commute and parole.

Norman Gardner, 30, Marion, Ohio, burglary, Douglas county, three years, 1950, commute and parole.

George Hillard, 27, Lincoln, burglary of Lincoln County club, Lancaster county, two years, 1950, paroled.

Reformatory

Eugene Gearhart, 20, Jva, S. D., forgery, Lancaster county, one to three years, 1950, paroled.

Donald Botham, 21, 21, Omaha, breaking and entering, Saunders county, two to five years, 1950, paroled.

Tokyo Rose's Conviction Is Upheld By Appeals Court

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — The treason conviction of Mrs. Iva Toguri d'Aquino, American-born Japanese known as "Tokyo Rose" during her broadcasts to American troops in the Pacific in World War II, was upheld Wednesday. Three judges of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco, in a unanimous 72-page opinion, found there was no reversible error in her trial before Federal District Judge Michael J. Roche in the summer of 1949.

She was sentenced to serve 10 years and has already served two years of the term at the Alderson, Va., federal penitentiary for women.

The Los Angeles-born Nisei will be eligible for parole in another year and a half.

She was found guilty of treason in her defense that she had been forced to make the broadcasts, after she was trapped in Japan by the outbreak of war while she was visiting there.

She also claimed she made her broadcasts on her "Zero Hour" program as favorable to the allies as possible.

But the opinion handed down by the Circuit court said:

"She was told and understood that the 'Zero Hour' program was designed for an audience among allied soldiers . . . and was to be used as an instrument of psychological warfare to cause the allied troops to become homesick and disgusted with the war."

The court pointed out that she participated in 340 "Zero Hour" programs, announcing herself as "Orphan Ann." Among programs the court listed was one after the battle of Leyte gulf in the Philippines in which she said:

Accident Suit Filed—William C. Kriss filed a $1,755 damage and personal injury suit against Paul S. and Albert G. Lindsey in District court. Kriss claims that Albert, son of Paul, on Sept. 8 collided with the Kriss car when it stopped on the highway. The accident happened a mile west of Lincoln on Highway 6. Kriss says he and two cars in front of him stopped to allow traffic to come on to Highway 6.

John Kempkes Retiring After Fire Fighting 'Dream' Realized

Like all boys with a yearning for grandeur, John Kempkes welled up inside when sirens screamed and engines whizzed around a corner as they raced to a fire.

But for John, unlike most boys with a dream, his hopes came true. He entered public service as a fireman.

That was 21 years ago this month, and looking back on his many years with Lincoln's fire station No. 3, the 49-year-old Kempkes still recalls his first fire and the excitement he felt.

But as with everything else, the thrill can't last forever, and for John Kempkes, of 141 South Twelfth, the day is next Monday when he retires from his captaincy of the station.

Last Monday, the 16 members of his station and Fire Chief E. P. Feaster and assistants Julius Schmidt and R. T. Tucker presented the retiring captain with a badge, a waterproof watch, and a chicken dinner.

The party, he said, "was worth a million to me. It's a good feeling to me when I go off the job to have a spread like that."

"And," he said remorsefully, "I'll sure miss the boys."

But while he retired from the fire-fighting business, ex-Captain Kempkes will still put in his eight working hours. His new occupation will be as a service station attendant. As a surprise to Kempkes four years ago, his son, William Donald, joined the fire department "to follow in his father's footsteps." Kempkes, looking out across a busy street, said "it's in your blood, that fire fighting."

"Every time you hear the sirens, they go right through you. Asked if he ever would go to another fire after retirement, he said:

"If the boys get a big fire, I'll be with 'em and bringing them coffee."

It's always the boys, he said, because an officer can't put out a fire alone.

U.N. Men Have Tough, Risky Job Keeping Kashmir Peace

By HAROLD K. MILKS
ON THE U.N. CEASEFIRE LINE, Kashmir—(AP)—If you want to be fat and well fed, don't take a job with the United Nations observer group keeping the peace along this rugged 450-mile Kashmir ceasefire line.
It's a tough life. Veterans of World War II serving with Maj. Gen. Robert Nimmo's 35-man group say it sometimes is harder than actual conflict.
Most of the 35 observers from seven countries, the United States, Canada, Belgium, Chile, Denmark, Norway, and Sweden are evenly divided between Indian-held and Pakistan-held areas of this disputed region.
Teams Of Two
They are based at brigade or division headquarters of the opposing armies in teams of two, usually located opposite each other across the cease-fire line.
From these bases they must make frequent inspections of the line itself, checking against violations of the Jan. 1, 1949, cease-fire agreement by which the United Nations halted a shooting war over Kashmir.
Few of these trips are made in the relative comfort of a jeep. Most of them are on horseback or on foot. Mountains ranging up to 13,000 feet cut through the line. Its eastern end is anchored to a giant glacier well above the all-year snowline.
Walking the cease-fire line is hard enough in pleasant fall weather. In winter it becomes a nightmare. Blizzards sweeping down from the Tibetan highlands bring many feet of snow. Opposing forward forces actually go underground, burrowing into thick tree-lined bunkers for the winter.
Rushes To Spot
As soon as a complaint comes in, the nearest cease-fire team rushes to the spot, at the same time radioing to its counterpart across the line to join in.
They make inspections, see for themselves what has happened and who was responsible. Occasionally the cease-fire observers themselves must wade into the thick of a shooting fight.
Once the inspection is finished both teams prepare their reports for submission to Gen. Nimmo. He studies the information, forwards his findings to both India and Pakistan through their military commanders, and tells the United Nations another clash has started and been stopped.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

(Distributed by International News Service)

The World Series was a pleasant relief from most page 1 news...

And of all the men left on base, none were stranded there because the guy at bat was secretly working for the other side.

But now we're back to "Who Said That?" featuring an all-star cast of contradictors.

Stassen got the roughest rebuttal when the state department started to deny a conference he attended...

So then they admitted there was a conference, but Stassen was wrong about what happened at it...

Or that accidental practice may not have been started until the Wake Island conference.

Which reminds me, the MacArthur plan for winning the war half-a-dozen months ago was not acceptable...

Doctors said they didn't know whether it could be replaced.

Rites Thursday For Dr. Harrison Wigton

OMAHA — (AP) — Funeral services will be held here at 1 p.m. Thursday for Dr. Harrison A. Wigton, a pioneer Omaha psychiatrist whose father edited the first newspaper at Hastings.

Dr. Wigton, who died Tuesday after a month's illness, was the son of A. L. Wigton, a newspaper man, state senator and founder of Hastings college.

A 1904 graduate of the University of Nebraska college of medicine, the younger Wigton was assistant superintendent of the state hospital at Hastings until 1907, then came to Omaha to practice. He was a member of the board of trustees of Hastings college and professor emeritus of neurology and psychiatry at the University of Nebraska college of medicine.

He is survived by his widow, a son and two daughters, all living in Omaha.

Pains, distress of "those days" stopped or amazingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in doctors' tests!

Here's wonderful news for women and girls who — each month — suffer the tortures of "bad days" of functionally-caused menstrual cramps and pain — headaches, backaches, and those "no-good," dragged-out feelings.

It's news about a medicine famous for relieving such suffering!

Here is the exciting news. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — gave complete or striking relief of such distress in an average of 3 out of 4 of the cases in doctors' tests!

Yes! Lydia Pinkham's has been proved to be scientifically modern in action!

This news will not surprise the thousands of women and girls who take Lydia Pinkham's regularly and know the relief it can bring.

And it should encourage you (if you're not taking Lydia Pinkham's) to see if your experience doesn't match theirs... to see if you, too, don't avoid the nervousness and tension, weakness, irritability—and

How Lydia Pinkham's works
It has a "calming" and soothing effect on the uterus... quieting the contractions (see the chart) that so often cause menstrual pain, cramps, other distress.

pain—so often associated with "those days!"

Remember Lydia Pinkham's, too—if you're suffering the "hot flashes" and other functionally-caused distress of "change of life."

Get Lydia Pinkham's Compound or new, improved Tablets with added iron (trial size only 59¢). Start taking Lydia Pinkham's today!
